

Oracle® Fusion Applications

Reference for Oracle SES Attributes

11g Release 1 (11.1.1.5.0)

E23074-01

April 2011

Stored attributes common to all the searchable objects must share the same name and data type. Due to the global nature of custom attributes in Oracle SES, if you create a new attribute of the same name as an already existing stored attribute, only the value of the attribute (regardless of type) in the first searchable object crawled is stored in Oracle SES. To prevent this conflict and allow Oracle SES to index both attributes, check the following lists of Oracle SES attribute names and types before creating new stored attributes:
