 - Enable Release Credit Holds (R42550) Program to Release Orders Regardless of Total Exposure

Ability to Schedule Preventive Maintenance based on User Preferences

The screenshot shows the 'Equipment P/M Schedules' interface. It includes a table with columns for 'Code' and 'Description'. The table contains several rows of maintenance schedules, such as 'No Frequency Indicator', 'Same Date Each Month', 'Last Date of Each Month', etc.

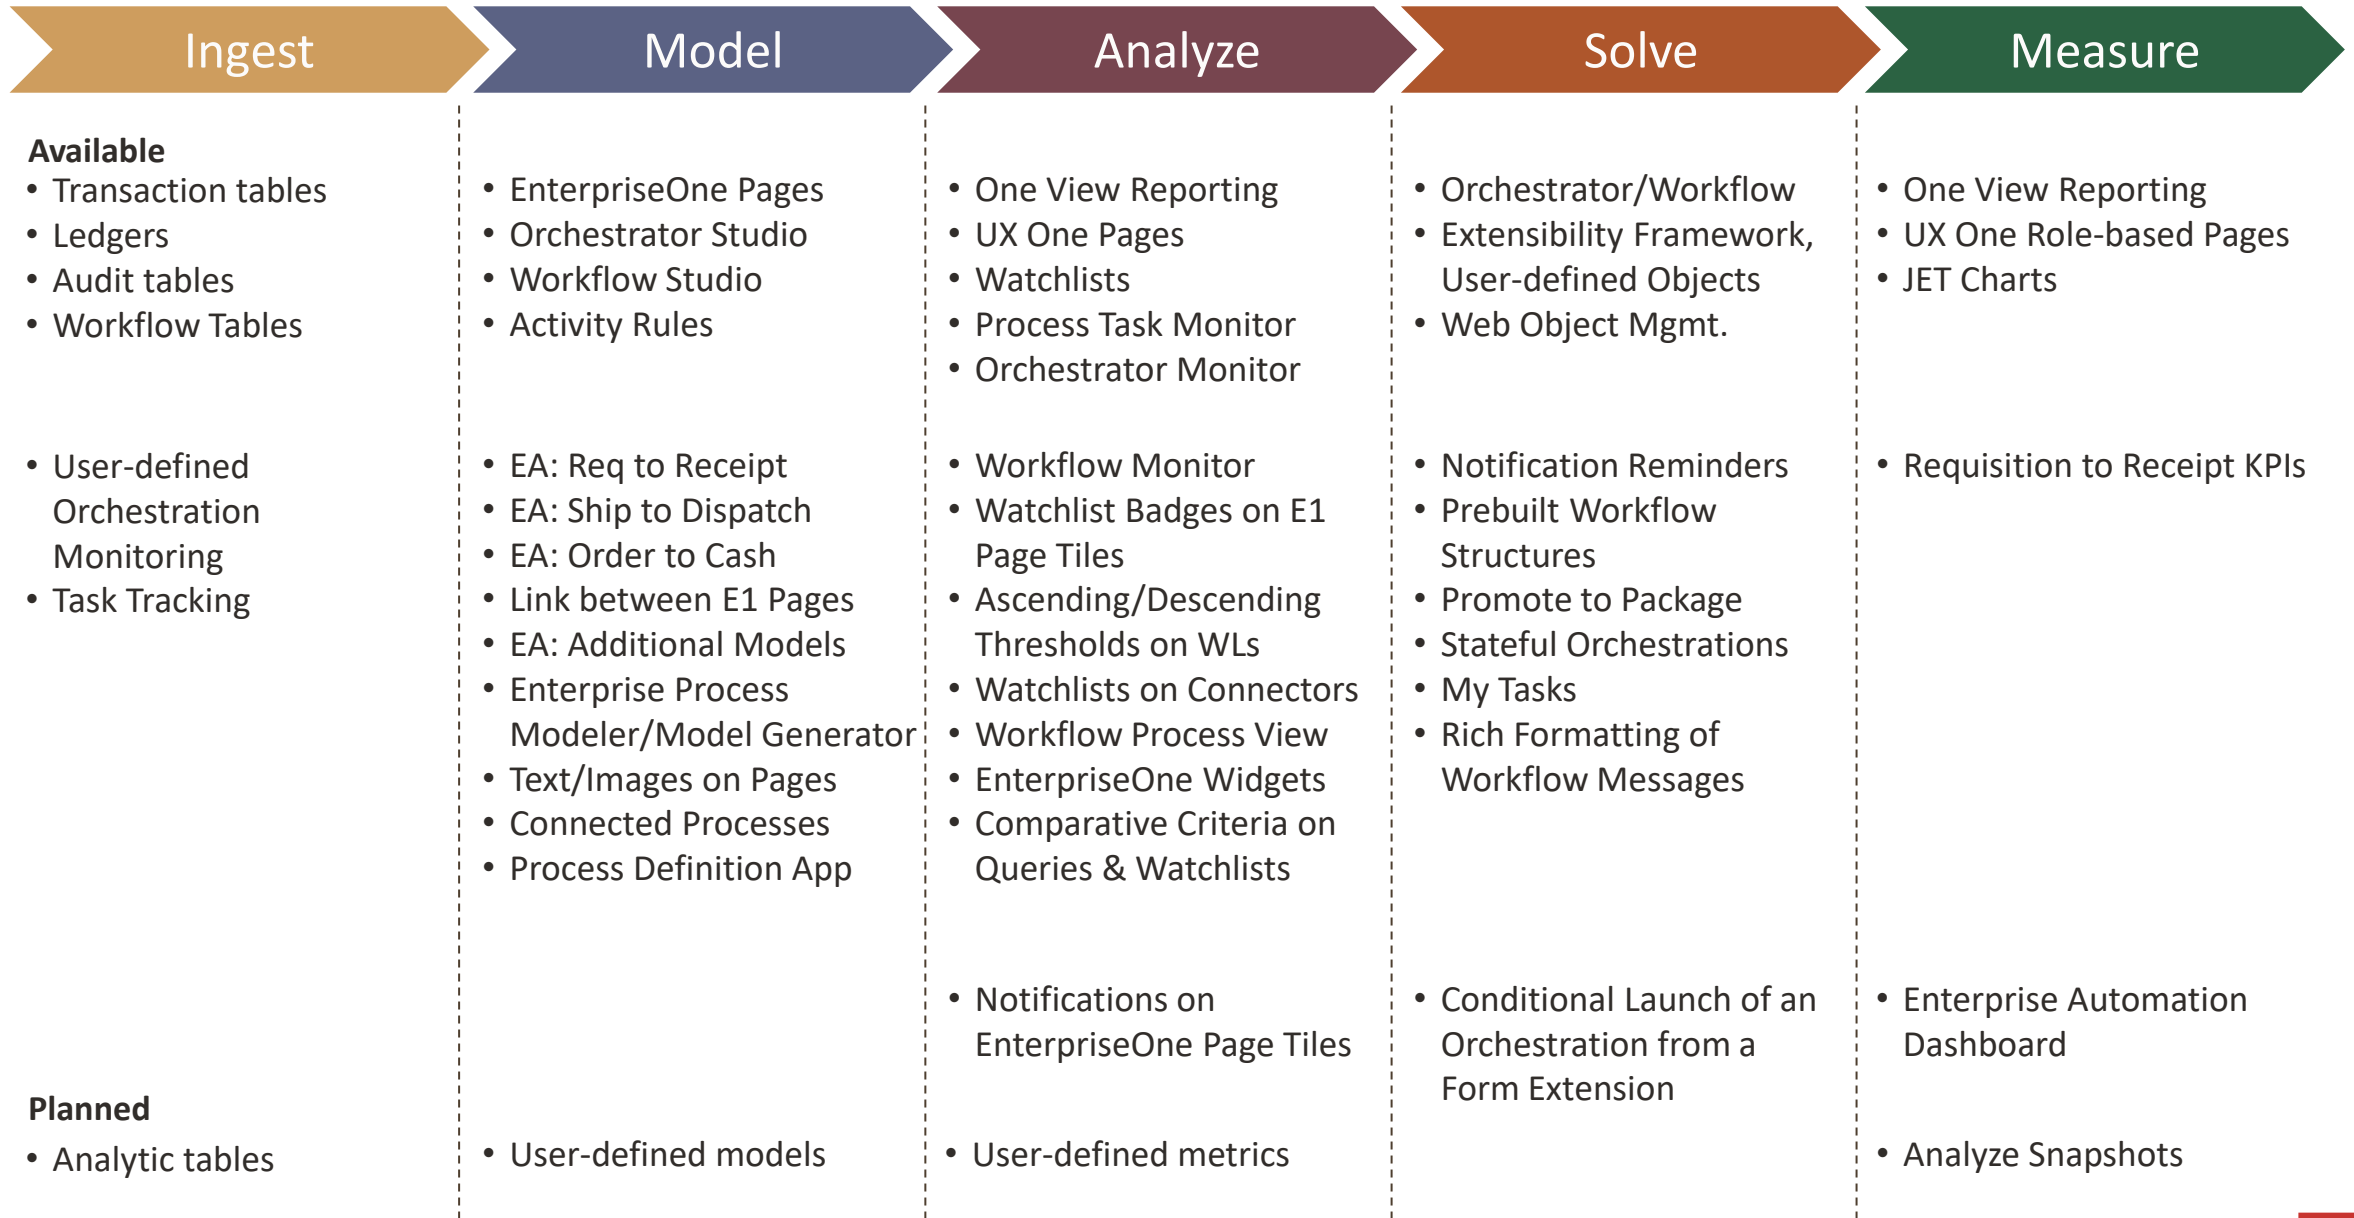

Limitations:

- Frequency at which the system schedules maintenance values are hardcoded.
- Manual adjustments to work orders
- Increased administrative effort and potential for errors

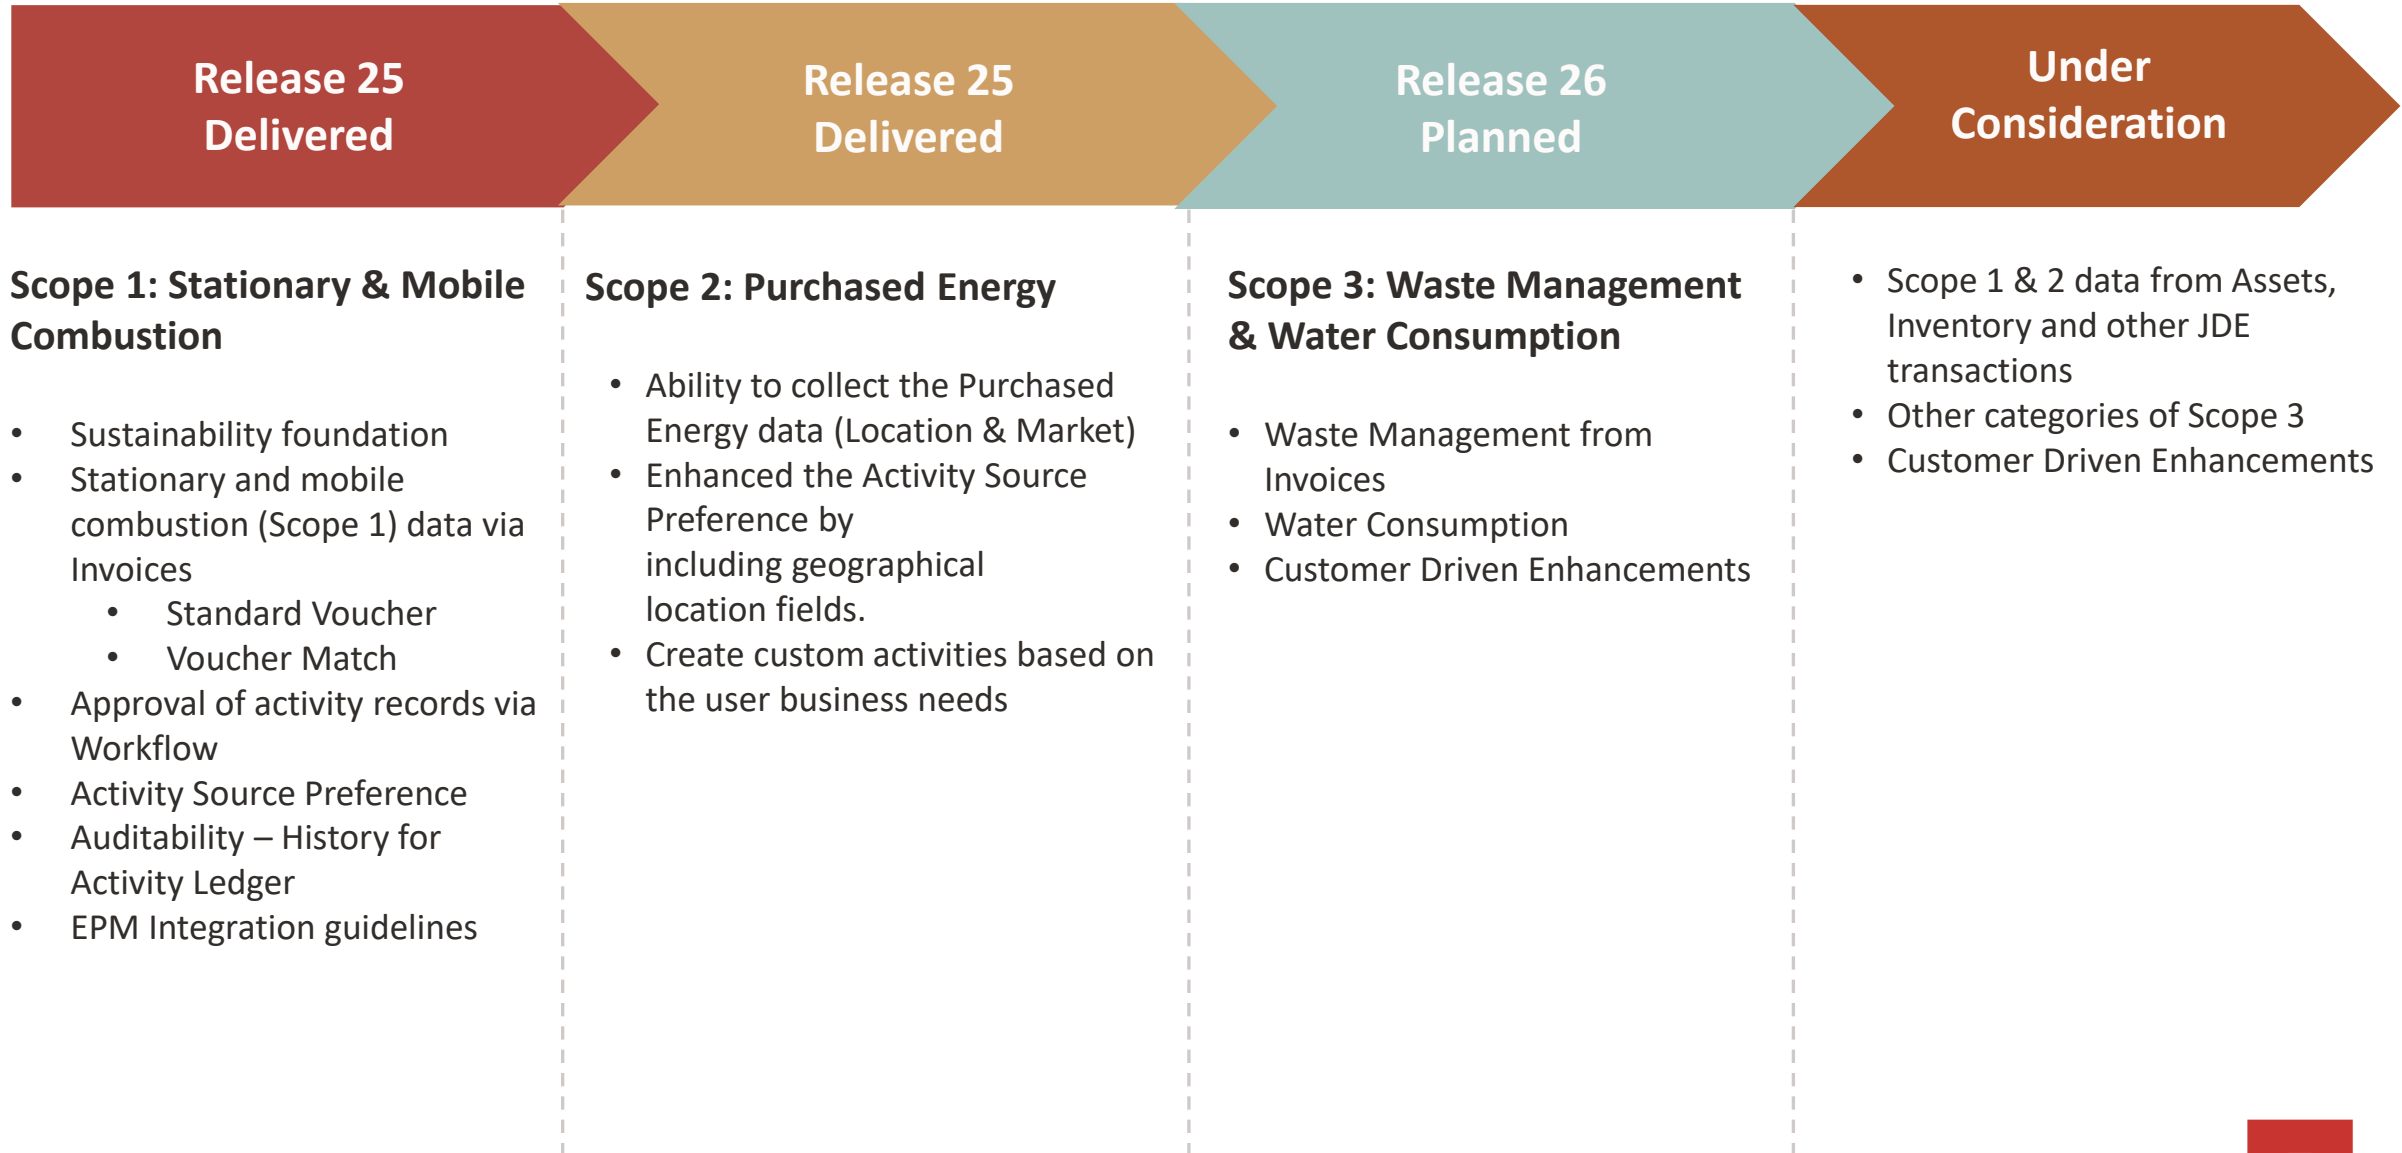

Benefits:

- Tailored Scheduling
Companies can create precise maintenance plans aligned with equipment usage patterns and seasonal demand.
- Improved Asset Performance
Maintenance is performed at optimal intervals, enhancing reliability and extending the lifespan of assets.
- Increased Operational Efficiency
User defined frequency intervals minimizes manual intervention and ensures timely maintenance execution.
