REP-01101
Group {0} has an invalid repeat direction.

Action:
Either change the repeat direction to meet the layout style requirements or select a different layout style.

REP-01102

REP-01103
No column is selected in group {0}.

Category:
Other

Copyright © 2000, 2026, Oracle and/or its affiliates.

Cause:
While trying to create a default layout, a column was not selected for a selected group. Consequently, Oracle Reports Builder cannot build a default layout because one or more of the dimensions of the layout have no value.

Action:
In the Report Wizard, select at least one column from each selected group.

Category:
Other

Cause:
A default layout was generated that does not fit within the given amount of space. REP-01106 no field is generated for column {0}.

Category:
Other

Cause:
When the default layout was created, a field was not generated for the column in the message. The most likely cause is that a summary was not placed in the data model correctly. For example, the source of a summary column may have been specified to be a column in a group above the summary's group, which is not allowed.

Action:
Debug the data model and redefault the layout.

REP-01107
The across or down group in cross product group {0} is missing.

Category:
Other

Cause:
An attempt was made to create a default layout by selecting a Style of Matrix in the Report Wizard, but all of the dimension groups of the cross product group were assigned repeat directions of Down or Across. Each repeat direction should be assigned to the dimension groups in the cross product.

Action:
Redisplay the Report Wizard and reassign the repeat directions of the dimension groups, making sure that each direction is assigned among the groups.

REP-01108
The default layout cannot fit even in region extending to page boundaries.

Category:
Other

Cause:

REP-01109
Multiple group selection is incompatible with single group layout style.

Category:
Other

Cause:
More than one group was selected to add to the layout but the style selected only supports one group.

REP-01110
The matrix across group in cross product group {0} is missing.

Category:

Category:
Other

Cause:
A single group was selected to be defaulted but a defaulting style designed for a multiple groups was also selected.

Action:
Change the group selection so that more than one group is selected. Alternatively, change the layout style to one that supports single groups.

REP-01115
The full template layout cannot be shown because it does not fit onto the page.

Category:
Other

Cause:
The template layout could not be shown properly because it is too large to fit within the defined height and width of the report page. This does not mean that the template is invalid in any way.

Action:
To show the template layout, temporarily enlarge the width and height of the report page. To do this, select the template in the Navigator and open the Property Inspector. Increase the Width and Height properties under the Report heading. Do not forget to reset the Width and Height properties before saving the template.

REP-01307
Summary column {0} has an invalid product order.

Category:
Other

Cause:
The possible causes of this error include: Case 1: A summary exists that is not a running summary (that is, its Reset At is not Report), but its Product Order is not a subset of the source column's product order. The source column of the summary must be at least as frequent as the summary, which means that the summary's Product Order should be some subset of the source column's Product Order. Case 2: A running summary (that is, its Reset At is Report) exists with a Product Order that is not a prefix of the source column's Product Order. For example, if the source column's Product Order were A,B,C, then the summary column's Product Order would have to be either A (by itself) or A,B. The summary's Product Order could not be B,A.

Action:

Category:
Other

Cause:
A summary was created at the report-level (that is, a summary outside of all the groups in the data model) with a Function of % of Total. This Function makes no sense for a report-level summary because it will always be 100%.

Delete the summary or move it into a group where it will make sense.

REP-01310
Boilerplate {0} references &{1} which is not a field.

Category:
Other

Cause:
A boilerplate object has a reference to a field that does not exist. It could be that the field being referenced was deleted or renamed and so this reference in the boilerplate object is now invalid.

Action:
Depending on circumstances, remove the reference, replace it with a reference to another field, or create the field that it references.

REP-01311
Object {0} with page-dependent references have been changed to fixed sizing.

Category:
Other

Copyright © 2000, 2026, Oracle and/or its affiliates.

Cause:

Action:
Verify the database connection, and verify that that no cursors or locks were left pending by the previous transaction.

REP-01319
Implicit anchoring algorithm cannot uniquely identify the anchoring object {0}. Arbitrarily choosing {1}.

Category:
Other

Cause:
The specified object (object1) is in the "push path" of two objects and it is equidistant from both objects. As a result, Oracle Reports Builder cannot use its normal criteria (shortest distance) to determine the implicit anchor. In the absence of its normal criteria, Oracle Reports Builder randomly creates an implicit anchor to the specified object (object2). Note that the implicit anchor may vary between runs of the report.

Copyright © 2000, 2026, Oracle and/or its affiliates.

Action:
To avoid the random creation of an implicit anchor, explicitly anchor the specified object (object1) to another object.

Category:
Other

Cause:
Another component (for example, Oracle Forms) passed a query to Oracle Reports Builder and there is a mismatch between the columns passed and the columns expected by Oracle Reports Builder. Possible causes of this error include: Case 1: Oracle Reports Builder was expecting more or fewer columns than the number that was actually passed by the calling application. Case 2: The parameter list of the calling application described a column differently than what Oracle Reports Builder expected. For example, if the report's query selects a character column and the calling application assigns that column a date data type, this error is raised.

Action:
Take the following actions to correct this error: If Case 1: Ensure that the calling application is passing the same number of columns that Oracle Reports Builder expects. If Case 2: Ensure that the datatypes and names of the columns being passed by the calling application match the dataypes and names in the report.
